

Fellow Rotarians:

January marks Vocational Service Month on the Rotary calendar!

Vocational service holds diverse meanings for everyone. For me, it signifies embodying Rotary values in my professional endeavors. In Rotary, Vocational Service translates to upholding the utmost ethical standards, as guided by the 4-way test: in all we think, say, or do. As leaders, it is our responsibility to exemplify these principles for the benefit of young people and others.

Within our Metro club, members leverage their vocational expertise to contribute to various business and education projects. We mentor youth through our Reach Out Metro project and conduct workshops on networking, interviewing, and resume building at Rock Bridge, Hickman, and Battle high schools. Additionally, we annually honor a community member who exemplifies the Rotary ideal of Vocational Service.

I encourage all Metro Rotarians to reflect on their Vocational Service and be mindful of the threefold commitment:

- Aspire to high ethical standards in their occupation.
- Recognize the worthiness of all useful occupations.
- Contribute their vocational talents to address the problems and needs of society.

Yours in Rotary service,

President Laura
